Advances in Drug Delivery Systems and Therapies for Ocular Disorders

Message from the Guest Editor

In recent years, the number of patients with ocular diseases is increasing as a consequence of population aging. In 2020, 1 billion people suffered from vision impairment, and this figure is expected to increase to 1.8 billion people by 2050. The most common causes of ocular disorders are cataract, glaucoma, age-related macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy, and presbyopia. This Special Issue is focused on different disorders and pathogenesis occurring in the eye and their possible therapies for treatment. The main goal is to show the current status and future perspectives of different treatment approaches, from the use of artificial or natural biomaterials (ocular tissue engineering) to emerging ocular sustained drug delivery treatments (clinical trials).

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Pharmaceutics (ISSN 1999-4923) is an online open access journal on the science and technology of pharmaceuticals and biopharmaceuticals. The scientific community, the wider community and the general public have unlimited and free access to the content as soon as a paper is published; this open access to your research ensures your findings are shared with the widest possible audience. Please consider publishing your impressive work in this high quality journal. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
