

Special Issue

Advances in Natural Products and Their Derivatives for Metabolic and Chronic Inflammatory Disease Therapy

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to invite you to participate in this Special Issue by submitting a contribution in the form of an original research paper, short communication, and/or global or specialized critical review, according to your field of expertise.

This Special Issue aims to explore and describe biological activities, including antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties, as well as antidiabetic, antiobesogenic, antirheumatic, and anticancer activities of natural products/substances and their derivatives, disclosing their role as possible therapeutic agents for metabolic and chronic inflammatory diseases.

Therefore, the main, but not exclusive, topics to be dealt with in the Special Issue “Advances in Natural Products and Their Derivatives for Metabolic and Chronic Inflammatory Disease Therapy” include the potential treatment of the following diseases, addressing whenever possible, the development of novel methodologies and the establishment of structure–activity relationships: Diabetes; Obesity; Metabolic diseases; Inflammation and oxidative-stress related diseases.

We look forward to receiving your contributions.
