Nano/Microparticle Technologies in Nonbiological Complex Drugs

Message from the Guest Editor

A nonbiological complex drug (NBCD) is a medicinal product, not a biological medicine, where the active substance is not a homomolecular structure but consists of different (closely related and often nanoparticulate) structures that cannot be isolated and fully quantitated, characterized, and/or described by physicochemical analytical means. Nano/microparticle-based delivery systems can be included in the NBCD class. This Special Issue focuses on nano/microparticle delivery system technologies (liposome, lipid nanoparticles, polymeric nanoparticles, polymeric micelles, polymeric microparticles) used in NBCD.
