Special Issue

Pharmacy Practice-based Research Networks

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on "Pharmacy Practice-Based Research Networks" invites article submissions (in all types of articles: original research, short communications, reviews) that explore PBRNs' role in advancing pharmacy practice research. We welcome a broad range of submission of manuscripts which deal with PBRN topics, including (but not limited to): Approaches to PBRN infrastructure building, technology and/or education; Strategies for engaging members and investigative partners; Examples of innovative methods and/or dissemination avenues; Discussion of human subjects and ethical considerations; Reports on member experiences; Findings from PBRN research projects. Articles representing collaborations across pharmacy PBRNs, partnerships with PBRNs from other disciplines, or describing "networks of networks" are welcomed and encouraged. We look forward to your submissions and welcome inquiries regarding the fit of prospective articles for this Special Issue.
