Pediatric Drug Safety and Medication Use

Message from the Guest Editor

We invite you to share your experiences, evaluations, innovations, or any service evaluation or research you have undertaken in relation to the role of medication safety in pediatric patients. Various approaches exist for care in a variety of healthcare settings, including acute care, ambulatory care, community practice, and the development of systems or processes in the medication use process. We hope this Special Issue will inspire pharmacists and researchers to share their own practices and adopt new approaches to innovate to improve pediatric drug safety.
