Message from the Guest Editor

Papers are solicited for a special issue on virtue ethics, with emphasis on studies that relate virtue and law (or lawfulness). Although papers on any topic in virtue ethics are welcome, priority will be given to those that deal with law. Papers are welcome both in the history of philosophy (any period) and in contemporary moral and social philosophy. Integrative and interdisciplinary studies, which attempt to link, compare, or apply views from disciplines other than philosophy, to philosophical questions, are especially welcome: for example, behavioral economics; psychology; sociology; neuroscience; education; family studies; management theory; and of course jurisprudence. Follow the link to the official website (bottom corner) for more detailed, potential themes.

Keywords: virtue ethics; classical ethics; law and morality; lawfulness; social justice

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Philosophies searches for the syntheses of philosophical and scientific inquiries. It promotes philosophical work that is derived from the experience of diverse scientific disciplines and cultures. Multiple philosophies already exist — those of logic, information, computation, natural and artificial life, natural or artificial intelligence, complexity, technology, etc. Our mission is not to abandon philosophical roots and traditions of inquiry, but to promote the development of philosophical foundations and effective methodologies derived from diverse scientific explorations, and intended to enhance these explorations as to generate deeper and more holistic knowledge. Innovation may also be achieved through the cultural dimension. Other cultures can offer from their heritage a diversity of resources for exploration; these resources can also contribute to the emergent synthesis of philosophical inquiry.
