Message from the Guest Editors

In recent years, a new generation of smart-polymer-based dental materials has been developed and launched on the market. Materials that promote the dental structure with mechanical reinforcement, as well as with ions which aid in remineralization, fight enzymes and bacteria without compromising aesthetics.

The aim of this Special Issue is to provide information with updated findings regarding the latest developments in the field of dental materials. It is our pleasure to invite you to submit research papers (both in vivo and in vitro), short communications, or systematic reviews related to the topics of this Special Issue.
