

Special Issue

Advances in the Preparation, Properties and Application of Polyurethane, Cellulose and Their Composites (3rd Edition)

Message from the Guest Editors

Polyurethane, cellulose, and their composites have been widely used in hitherto unimagined areas due to their excellent properties. Along with fast-increasing consumption in recent years, the demand for advanced polyurethane and cellulose-based composites has grown rapidly. Accordingly, this Special Issue seeks to showcase research papers, short communications, and review articles that focus on innovation in polyurethane and cellulose-based materials, including material synthesis, modification, and engineering.
