

Special Issue

High-Performance Resin Composite and Coating

Message from the Guest Editor

High-end technology, represented by aerospace, ocean vessels, microelectronics, etc., is undergoing rapid development, and higher demands are also being placed on the performance of corresponding materials. To meet this demand, research on high-performance resin composites and coatings has long been a key focus in this field. Based on this, researchers are committed to developing new molecular and material designs in order to achieve a balance between material processing performance, usability, and functionality, which has always been challenging. This Special Issue is devoted to the most recent research on these topics. Both original articles and reviews are welcome, with a focus on the structure–property relationship of high-performance resin composites and coatings.
