Advanced Polymeric Biomaterials

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue, Advanced Polymeric Biomaterials, will collect recent innovative original research and review papers focusing on the scientific discussion and practical applications in the field of biomedical polymeric materials. The applications encompass drug/DNA delivery systems, biodegradable polymers, soft/hard tissue-compatible polymers (e.g., polymers for dental and orthopedic applications), 3D-printable biomaterials, bioconjugate polymers, tissue engineering, scaffold biomaterials, and so on. Special emphasis will be placed on advanced synthetic methodologies, dynamic chemistry/assembly strategies, and modulated cell-material interactions of polymeric biomaterials. We hope to share new concepts of biomedical polymers, organic/inorganic hybrid biomaterials, and bioconjugated polymers. Research articles, reviews, and communications are welcomed.
