Advances in Polymeric Superhydrophobic Materials

Message from the Guest Editor

Due to the diversity and complexity of the application environment, especially in the seawater environment, metal materials are often corroded. The friction and wear cannot be avoided in the application process, causing safety risks and economic losses. Polymer-based superhydrophobic coatings and films are widely used in metal protection fields. We are pleased to invite you to contribute other unpublished papers to the journal Polymers. This Special Issue is aimed at Polymer-Based Superhydrophobic Coating and Films. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Composites
- Nanoparticles
- Hydrophobicity
- Catalyst supports
- Coating
- materials
- Oxides.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Since its foundation in 2009, Polymers has developed into an internationally renowned, extremely successful open access journal. The editorial team and the editorial board dedicatedly combine open-access publishing and high-quality rigorous peer reviewing. The performance of the journal has proven this strategy to be well-suited and highly successful. This is reflected in the increasing impact factor of Polymers, the most recent one being 4.7.

I would like to invite you to contribute to the success of the journal by sending us your high quality research papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
