Advanced Polymers for Dental Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

Over recent decades, continuous advancements and important changes have occurred in the clinical applications of polymer-based materials in dentistry. These materials have received increased attention and play a major role in different aspects of dentistry, such as preventive, restorative, and regenerative treatments. The increased use of engineering and nanotechnology in medicine and dentistry has led to the development of improved polymers for dental applications. The recent advancements, fabrication technology, and implementation of polymer-based materials in dentistry are the subject of this Special Issue, titled “Advanced Polymers for Dental Applications”. I invite you to submit original articles or review papers on any subject related to polymers in dentistry.
