Advanced Study on Polymer-Based Textiles

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue in Polymers entitled “Advanced Study in Polymer-Based Textiles” incorporates a deep understanding of both polymer science and textile engineering by covering a wide range of areas involved in the study of polymer materials. The Special Issue is dedicated to recent advances in the research and development of polymer-based materials, including but not limited to polymer material characterization, processing techniques, polymer chemistry, material functionalization and modification, as well as the development and performance of nanostructured polymers. In addition, this Special Issue is focused on promoting an interdisciplinary approach to research in order to address the complex challenges of the 21st century and make meaningful advances in the challenging field of polymer science. Therefore, we kindly invite researchers in the field to submit research articles or reviews on the latest research in the described areas.
