Message from the Guest Editor

Natural polysaccharides have gained wide attention due to their sustainability, biodegradability, and environmental friendliness. We are putting together a Special Issue of the open-access journal Polymers, entitled Natural Polysaccharides: Synthesis, Modification, and Application aims to collect cutting-edge, original, and innovative research papers. Special emphasis will be placed on, but topics are not limited to, the following:

- Synthesis of natural polysaccharides
  - Modification of natural polysaccharides
  - Development of new natural polysaccharides
  - Structural characterization of natural polysaccharides
  - Functional materials based on natural polysaccharides
  - Application of new natural polysaccharides
- We look forward to receiving your publications describing natural polysaccharides.

An early-bird discount will be available for submissions before September 2022. Please contact special issue editor shelly.gu@mdpi.com for details.
