Polymers for Electronic Applications

Message from the Guest Editor

Polymeric materials have contributed a lot to advances in electronic devices. In this Special Issue, we focus on the polymeric materials that are/can be utilized in electronic devices. Many polymeric materials such as dielectric materials, encapsulation materials, micro-lithography materials (photoresist or photosensitive materials), electrical/thermal insulating materials, transparent high-temperature materials, electrochromic materials, conjugated materials (for LED or solar cells, etc.) are welcome in this Special Issue. I hope these research studies can provide a new view of how polymeric materials have been/can be utilized in electronic devices. Review and regular original papers are all welcome.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Since its foundation in 2009, Polymers has developed into an internationally renowned, extremely successful open access journal. The editorial team and the editorial board dedicatedly combine open-access publishing and high-quality rigorous peer reviewing. The performance of the journal has proven this strategy to be well-suited and highly successful. This is reflected in the increasing impact factor of Polymers, the most recent one being 4.9.

I would like to invite you to contribute to the success of the journal by sending us your high quality research papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
