Recent Advances in Photopolymerization

Message from the Guest Editor

Photoinitiators play a significant role in photopolymerization and can determine the photopolymerization speed and photopolymer properties among other factors. Nowadays, photoinitiators have widely applied in various fields such as coatings, adhesives and the additive manufacturing and biomedical fields. Thus, understanding the photophysical and photochemical processes that take place in photoinitiators during exposure and the design of efficient photoinitiators and photo initiation systems are of great value. In this case, this Special Issue aims to compile original and cutting-edge research work in the development, characterization and application of photoinitiators in photopolymerization.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Since its foundation in 2009, Polymers has developed into an internationally renowned, extremely successful open access journal. The editorial team and the editorial board dedicatedly combine open-access publishing and high-quality rigorous peer reviewing. The performance of the journal has proven this strategy to be well-suited and highly successful. This is reflected in the increasing impact factor of Polymers, the most recent one being 4.9.

I would like to invite you to contribute to the success of the journal by sending us your high quality research papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
