

Special Issue

Biobased Polymers and Its Composites

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on “Biobased Polymers and Its Composites” supposes an opportunity to submit research and review manuscripts associated with biobased polymers from renewable or recycling resources and biobased polymer composites containing fibers or biobased reinforcements. It covers all types of polymeric matrices (thermoplastics and thermosets), fibers (natural fibers, recycled fibers, etc.) and additives (nanocellulose, nanoclays, etc.) that involve novel developments, innovations, and applications in the field of biobased polymeric composites.
