The aim of this Special Issue on "Green particle technologies: processes and applications" is to uncover the most recent advancements in the development of green particle technologies, seeking novel contributions in, but not limited to, the following areas:

- Green processes on the synthesis and formation of particles;
- Green processes on the modification of particles;
- Green processes of particle handling and operations;
- The use of green materials in particle-related products;
- The application of particle technology in the production of green products;
- Processes on treatment of waste/harmful particles;
- New characterization methods, techniques and indications towards green particulate materials and products.

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus,

SCIE (Web of Science), Ei Compendex, Inspec, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Chemical) / CiteScore - Q2 (Chemical Engineering (miscellaneous))
