Message from the Guest Editors

Nowadays, the properties of meat comprise one of the most important topics for food scientists. Although some traits of meat can be predicted using standard methodologies, among scientists and the meat industry, there is a growing interest in finding new solutions by which a number of traits can be predicted/analysed more efficiently. Therefore, in this Special Issue, we invite you to submit papers (both original research and review articles) regarding new or improved methods and technologies for analysing different aspects of meat quality, from technological, nutritional and sensory traits to different hygienic and toxicological aspects related to meat production. Manuscripts that discuss the influence of pre-mortem and ante-mortem factors on different meat quality traits are also welcome.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), Ei Compendex, Inspec, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Chemical) / CiteScore - Q2 (Chemical Engineering (miscellaneous))
