Message from the Guest Editors

Today, the importance of air quality is a topic in which it is extremely important to invest in terms of research activities. Indoor and outdoor quality monitoring systems are well accepted for contribution in this Special issue, together with critical reviews describing the problems in terms of pollution and their link with human health prevention. The topics of this Special Issue will include, for example:

- Treatment of gaseous waste from industry;
- Development of conventional and novel equipment for the monitoring of the main air quality parameters;
- Critical analysis of the outdoor air quality, industrial, motor vehicle and incinerator emissions, economic analysis;
- Indoor air quality in a working environment, in case of poor ventilation;
- Health impact of air pollution.

This issue is also open to health scientists proposing their studies on the effect of air pollutants on patient health, especially during this COVID-19 pandemic outbreak.

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.
