Advances in Electrode Materials for Energy Storage Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on “Advances in Electrode Materials for Energy Storage Applications” aims to present cutting-edge research in this field. We cordially extend an invitation to submit your valuable and original articles or reviews to this Special Issue. Research areas may include, but are not limited to:

- The Synthesis and characterization of novel nanostructured electrode materials;
- The design and fabrication of hierarchical electrode architectures and nanocomposites;
- The development of environmentally friendly electrode materials and manufacturing processes;
- Surface engineering technology (e.g., surface coatings, functionalization, doping);
- Energy storage mechanisms;
- Ionic liquid and solid-state electrolytes studies;
- Flexible and wearable energy storage;
- The improvement of commercialized electrode materials.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
