

Special Issue

Application of Refrigeration and Heat Pump Technology

Message from the Guest Editor

The focus of this Special Issue is the increasing demand for energy-efficient solutions to meet heating and cooling needs, considering the challenges posed by climate change and the necessity of reducing greenhouse gas emissions. The welcomes the submission of original research articles and critical review articles encompassing a wide range of topics, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Progress in heat pump and refrigeration configurations and components.
- Working fluids for heat pump and refrigeration systems.
- District cooling and heating, supermarket refrigeration, space- and hot-water heat pump heaters, and other areas.
- The development of high-temperature and industrial heat pump technologies.
- The incorporation of energy storage solutions in HVAC&R.
- The use of renewable energy sources and energy recovery methods with innovative HVAC&R technologies.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
