

Special Issue

Electrochemical and Photocatalytic-Based Degradation Technologies for the Treatment of Emerging Contaminants

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, entitled “Electrochemical and Photocatalytic-Based Degradation Technologies for the Treatment of Emerging Contaminants”, seeks high-quality papers focusing on the latest advances in electrochemical and photocatalytic technologies for the treatment of emerging contaminants. Topics include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Theory and mechanism of photocatalysis/electrocatalysis
- Design, analysis, control, optimization or operation of photocatalysis/electrocatalysis system.
- Treat of environmental emerging contaminants
- Research on advanced oxidation technology
- Catalytic materials and performance application
- Conservation of renewable energy
- Development and application of photocatalysis/electrocatalysis in industry

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
