Pyrolytic Process for Recycling

Message from the Guest Editors

Research papers submitted to the Pyrolytic Process for Recycling Section of Processes are expected to demonstrate novel fundamental concepts of pyrolysis (thermal decomposition reactions and mechanisms), experimental and calculational (numerical) results of the impacts of process parameters on the yields of processes and the physical as well as chemical properties of products, catalytic pyrolysis, integration with other processes for more sustainable recycling solutions and with circular economy principles for sustainable waste management, economic and environmental aspects (environmental impact assessment and life cycle analysis), applications of pyrolytic recycling in different industries, challenges, limitations, and future perspectives of pyrolytic recycling.
