Women's Special Issue Series: Processes

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to present this special collection of articles highlighting the achievements of women scientists in process- and system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing, and allied engineering fields from all around the world. This Special Issue is devoted to presenting research performed by female scientists. We encourage articles in which the lead and/or corresponding authors are women. However, we recognize that gender identity is personal and that our understanding of equity and equality is constantly evolving; therefore, we welcome submissions from all authors, irrespective of gender. Topics include, but are not limited to

- Chemical processes and systems;
- Biological processes and systems;
- Materials processes;
- Catalysis-enhanced processes;
- Environmental and green processes;
- Energy systems;
- Process control and monitoring;
- Automation control systems;
- Food processes;
- Pharmaceutical processes;
- Manufacturing processes and systems;
- Sustainable processes;
- Separation Processes
- Particle Processes
- AI-enabled process engineering.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
