Optimization of Adsorbent Materials and Their Application in Sustainable Wastewater Treatment

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on “Optimization of Adsorbent Materials and Their Application in Sustainable Wastewater Treatment” seeks high-quality works that focus on the advances in the development and application of optimized adsorbent materials for the treatment of contaminated water resources. We invite submissions that investigate the innovative synthesis of adsorbent materials, modifications of existing materials performance, and the adsorption efficiency tests of wastewater treatment using optimization techniques.
