Biomaterial Applications in Polymer Processing and Drug Design

Message from the Guest Editors

In the realm of biomedical research, the fusion of biomaterials, polymer processing, and drug design heralds a new era of innovation and breakthroughs. With a focus on leveraging biomaterials for drug delivery systems, tissue engineering, and regenerative medicine, this interdisciplinary field is poised to significantly improve healthcare. This Special Issue, entitled “Biomaterial Applications in Polymer Processing and Drug Design”, is dedicated to showcasing the latest advancements in this dynamic area of study. From novel polymer processing methodologies like electrospinning and microinjection molding, to the synthesis and characterization of biomaterials tailored for specific biomedical applications, this issue aims to illuminate the cutting-edge research driving progress within the field.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
