Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This issue aims to draw together current thinking and research related to the use of R/S interventions by clinicians with the intent of setting the stage for a deeper understanding of the rationale for R/S interventions—both in general and with respect to the use of specific interventions. Contributors are invited to submit theoretical and research essays on the use of specific R/S practices, the role of assessment in spiritually-integrated psychotherapy, meta-analyses of existing research on the topic, or the ethical use of R/S interventions. Contributions representative of any R/S tradition will be considered.

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community - disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
