

Special Issue

Interfaith Dialogues: Jewish and Christian Connections via Medieval Art and Literature

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to announce a call for papers for a Special Issue on the subject of “Jewish–Christian Relations in Medieval Art and Literature.” This Special Issue aims to explore the complex relationship between Jews and Christians during the medieval period and its representation in art and literature. We invite contributions that examine the ways in which Jewish and Christian cultures intersected, overlapped, or collided in medieval art and literature, and how these interactions shaped the cultural, social, and political landscapes of the time. Topics of interest include but are not limited to:

- Representations of Jews and Christians in medieval art and literature
- Jewish and Christian visual and literary culture
- Interfaith relations and cultural exchange
- Polemical texts and anti-Jewish sentiments in medieval literature
- Christian Hebraism and Jewish responses
- Theological and philosophical debates between Jews and Christians
- Manuscripts, codices and illuminated texts
- Material culture and religious objects

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
