

Special Issue

The Role of Religions in Multiple Modern Societies: The Global South

Message from the Guest Editors

Contributions must be from the field of social sciences encompassing the current study of religious and cultural phenomena. In addition, the Special Issue welcomes articles based on recent empirical and ethnographic research or theoretical and epistemological debates supported by sociological and historical data.

Religions would like to provide discounts or fee waivers to scholars who do not have enough funding, are based in the Global South, and are the paper's first authors.

After acceptance and before the Special Issue goes online, authors may apply, and Religions will check and apply for a fee waiver if possible.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
