Daoist Metaphysics: Past, Present and Future

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue focuses on metaphysical and phenomenological readings of Daoist materials, all of which derive from Daoist thought around the view of reality itself, which is the meaning of metaphysics. If “physics” describes how real things operate, then “metaphysics” discusses what it means to say that things are real. We hope to include ontological views, process views, linguistic views, and cognitive views, among others that are impossible to anticipate, with the goal of acknowledging the full spectrum of approaches. We invite submissions on any theme related to Daoist views of reality for inclusion in this Special Issue of Religions. We request that, prior to submitting a manuscript, interested authors initially submit a proposed title and an abstract of 400–600 words summarizing their intended contribution. Please send it to the (afox@udel.edu) or to the Religions Editorial Office (religions@mdpi.com). Abstracts will be reviewed by the for the purposes of ensuring a proper fit within the scope of the Special Issue. Full manuscripts will undergo double-blind peer review.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
