The Study of Biblical Theology: Global Pentecostalism

Message from the Guest Editor

We seek submissions from those whose academic work and/or professional ministry contributes to understanding, interpreting, and constructively critiquing Pentecostalism and the Charismatic movement from a biblical-theological perspective. The range of this Special Issue on the study of Biblical Theology and Pentecostalism comprises the Holiness movement of the 19th century, the rapid spread of Pentecostalism across the world in the 20th century (especially the impact of the Azusa Street revival), the leadership—particularly minorities and women—who propelled the movement, the global impact of Pentecostalism, and the requisite for reform as it continues its growth into the 21st century. This embraces especially any focus on the minorities and women who impacted the advancement of Pentecostalism. The purpose is to interpret global Pentecostalism from the perspective of biblical theology and to offer aspects of reforming, refining, or refocusing the movement to the biblical authority which most of its proponents adhere.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
