

Special Issue

Religion, Society, Politics and Digital Technologies

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue will focus on comparative studies in religion, society and politics in the context of digital technologies. Digital technologies, artificial intelligence, and religious traditions; religious identity building through social media; religious youth's engagement with digital worlds; digital religion; religious social media influencers; reimagined religious authority; religious YouTubers; authoritarian religious masculine gaze in the cyberspace; religious bubbles in the digital world; religious youth on Instagram; religious digital diaspora; and performative religious storytelling in the digital age have become intensely discussed phenomena of our age. However, there are few studies on these and similar issues even though it is given that these issues will increasingly influence societies, countries, laws and politics.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
