

Special Issue

Bible and Liturgy in Dialogue

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to explore the rich relationships between Bible and liturgy, both in history and in the present. It looks into the field of liturgy in Scripture, the various usages of Scripture throughout history and in today's liturgy in which the use of the Bible has been expanded through the liturgical reform of the Second Vatican Council and of other denominations (e.g. Revised Common Lectionary). The special issue opens up a dialogue between liturgical and biblical studies which in recent years has been intensified. Prior to submitting a manuscript, please submit a proposed title and an abstract of about 300 words summarizing their intended contribution. Please send it to the (benini@uni-trier.de), or to the Assistant Editor of Religions. Abstracts will be reviewed by the for the purposes of ensuring proper fit within the scope of the special issue. Full manuscripts will undergo double-blind peer review. We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
