

Special Issue

Catholic Church–State Relations in Global Transition

Message from the Guest Editor

We are pleased to invite you to participate in this Special Issue of Religions whose focus is on “Catholic Church–State Relations in Global Transition”. Our volume will explore the changing political dynamics between the Catholic Church and its relations with civil states by examining events, treaties, laws, religious documents, political movements, and other sources as needed. Research areas and proposals may include (but are not limited to) the following:

Current Catholic Church–State policies: ideological, partisan, or independent?

Prophetic politics: a biblical solution for today’s Church–State relations?

Benevolent secularism: a new model of Church–State relations?

Co-operative Church–State politics in traditional Catholic states;

Challenging Church–State politics in secular states; Vatican policies of life/marriage/sexuality/immigration, etc. in a Church–State context;

Catholicism, social justice, and human rights in a Church–State context.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
