

Special Issue

Buddhism and Other Practices for the Environmental Crisis

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of the journal Religions is devoted to developing the many ways in which Buddhist practice can address the global environmental crisis, and will explore the use of Buddhist practice to develop a population that would understand and want the changes needed and so support both the personal and material development of those changes. Authors who are interested should submit a proposed title and an abstract of 400–600 words, summarizing their intended contribution prior to preparing their manuscripts. Abstracts will be reviewed by the Guest Editor for the purposes of ensuring proper fit within the scope of the Special Issue, and then full manuscripts will be solicited. Please send the abstract to , dorr@yorku.ca. Timeline: Proposals should be submitted by March 31, 2023. Deadline for manuscript Submissions is August 31, 2023. There will be no fee for publications of accepted proposals. Special Issue website: https://www.mdpi.com/journal/religions/special_issues/CSV3PUC90

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
