

Special Issue

Propaganda: A Hindu View

Message from the Guest Editor

This proposed special issue of Religions aims to explore Hindu encounters and experiences with the phenomenon of propaganda from an interdisciplinary perspective, ranging from historical analyses of colonial encounters and debates between Christian missionaries and Hindu scholars in the past to contemporary investigations of media representations of Hindus and Hinduism, in addition to broader philosophical and theological reflections from a Hindu perspective on modern mass media and propaganda.

Prospective contributors please inquire with an abstract under 300 words by October 1, 2021 (The paper submission deadline is February 1, 2022).

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
