Ecclesiology in Context: Exploring the Historical, Cultural, and Theological Dimensions of the Church

Message from the Guest Editor

We invite submissions for a Special Issue on Ecclesiology in Context: Exploring the Historical, Cultural, and Theological Dimensions of the Church, investigating the Church across various historical, theological, and cultural contexts. This issue explores how the Church has been understood in different Christian traditions (Catholic, Orthodox, Calvinist, etc.) and periods. We welcome research on topics such as: How has ecclesiology developed over time? What theological debates and schisms shaped views on the Church? How do different Christian denominations conceptualize the Church? We also encourage studies on outsider or critical perspectives, including legal and political views of the Church. Research areas include: the evolution of ecclesiology, the Church as a spiritual and social community, denominational differences, and the impact of historical events on ecclesiastical self-images. Please submit a title and abstract (200–300 words) by 1 March 2025 to (csaba.fazekas@uni-miskolc.hu) or Ms. Violet Li (violet.li@mdpi.com). Full manuscripts will undergo peer review. We look forward to your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
