

Special Issue

Organ Transplantation in Islam: Perspectives and Challenges

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to explore fresh scholarship on the debates regarding organ transplantation and organ and tissue donation in Islam—not only describing the prevailing judgments made by Muslim scholars and jurists on the subject matter but also, and perhaps even more importantly, critiquing them by putting their ontological and epistemological methodologies, theological rationales, and legal and jurisprudential principles under scrutiny. To this end, scholars and researchers are invited to examine organ transplantation and organ and tissue donation in Islam from their respective areas of expertise and disciplinary fields.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
