Religious Socialization in Current Sociology

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue on "Religious Socialization in Current Sociology."

This Special Issue aims to identify and analyze successful religious and interreligious actions that generate measurable social impact, leading to tangible improvements in people's lives and communities. It seeks contributions that explore how religious engagement contributes to overcoming inequalities, preventing violence, promoting ethical labour practices, strengthening civic participation, and advancing gender equality, thereby supporting the advancement of the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). By documenting and reflecting on transformative experiences and evidence-based practices, this Special Issue aligns with the journal's scope concerning social transformation, civic engagement, and sustainable development. We welcome theoretical, methodological, and empirical studies that examine how religious actions and emerging spiritualities respond to contemporary global challenges while fostering equality, intercultural understanding, and social well-being.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
