

Special Issue

Evangelical Theology Today: Exploring Theological Perspectives

Message from the Guest Editor

We invite your contributions to this Religions Special Issue on the relevance, purpose, and diversity of perspectives within evangelical theology today. Your contributions may reflect on the questions, problems, concerns, or developments of evangelical theology from a critically interactive theological or hermeneutical framework or tradition. Original research articles or journal-length critical review articles are both welcome. All submissions must be between 4000 and 20,000 words. Potential topics of research may include:

- Evangelical theology and deconstruction;
- Postconservative evangelicalism and phenomenology;
- Biblical hermeneutics and postconservative theology;
- Postliberal theology and evangelical theology;
- The relevance or meaning of the term “evangelical” for global Christianity.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
