

Special Issue

Tantric Studies for the Twenty-First Century

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue will be to highlight cutting-edge research in Tantric Studies. We invite submissions on a broad range of topics and traditions relating to the study of Tantric traditions, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, Sikhism, Daoism, and Shinto, in South, Central, East, and Southeast Asia, and in the global contemporary context. We particularly welcome papers exploring the transmission of Tantric traditions across the boundaries of traditions or cultures.

Submissions from any methodological approach are welcome, including textual critical work, from art or architecture historical, ethnographic, or social scientific approaches. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following: studies of Tantric traditions, texts, and/or practices, relating to Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, Daoism, Shinto, and contemporary new religions, with textual historical, art or architecture historical, ethnographic, or social scientific methodological approaches. We look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
