Islamic Colloquia of Edinburgh (ICE) Conference (7–9 July 2025): Miracles in Islam

Message from the Guest Editor

We are pleased to invite you to contribute to the first annual online conference of the Islamic Colloquia of Edinburgh (ICE), hosted by the University of Edinburgh. ICE is dedicated to fostering interdisciplinary dialogue and research on Islamic theology, philosophy, and the relationship between Islam and science. As an annual platform for scholars and students worldwide, ICE aims to explore key questions and topics that contribute to the advancement of Islamic thought. This year's theme, Miracles in Islam, engages one of the most central and contested areas in Islamic intellectual history. Miracles have played a pivotal role in shaping perspectives on divine intervention, prophecy, and the relationship between faith and reason, both historically and in contemporary times.

This Special Issue aims to gather leading research on miracles in Islam, situating them within the wider scope of Islamic theology, philosophy, Qur'anic studies, and the dialogue between Islam and science. The subject aligns closely with the journal's remit to explore religions in their intellectual, historical, and cultural contexts.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
