

Special Issue

Buddhist Practice for the Crises That Face Us

Message from the Guest Editor

The essays in this special edition of “Religion” will focus on Buddhism as an oral culture and spiritual approach that is grounded in innate human capacities, which, in conjunction with left-brain science and technology, can address the multiple contemporary crises with which we are faced. Authors who are interested should submit a proposed title and an abstract of 400–600 words, summarizing their intended contribution prior to preparing their manuscripts. Abstracts will be reviewed by the for the purposes of ensuring proper fit within the scope of the Special Issue, and then full manuscripts will be solicited. Please send the abstract to . Timeline: Proposals should be submitted by August 31, 2021.

Deadline for manuscript Submissions is December 31, 2021. There will be no fee for publications of accepted proposals. Special Issue website:

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
