

Special Issue

Islamic Religious Thought (Volume I)

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will explore how thinkers in the al-wasatiyya school of thought have responded to al-salafiyya's interpretation of theological concepts that have influenced and shaped Islamic beliefs throughout Islamic history. Concepts such as al-wala' wa al-bara' (loyalty and disavowal), takfir (declaring a Muslim unbeliever), and iman (belief or faith) have long been debated in the circles of Muslim thinkers, theologians, Jurists, and scholars. These concepts occupy a central role in the salafi thought, justifying calls to cut or limit Muslim interactions with non-Muslims and to declare other Muslims unbelievers on the assumption that they are not following "correct" Islam. On the contrary, the wasati approach promotes a moderate and pragmatic interpretation of the Qur'an, hadith, and shari'a (Islamic law) that emphasizes the compatibility of Islam and modernity.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
