

Special Issue

The New Visibility of Religion and Its Impact

Message from the Guest Editor

In this special edition new academic fields of the study of religion and theological discourse are introduced by leading experts in their field. The new visibility of religion has not only created a novel awareness of religion today but has also created new areas of the study of religion. With the recent development of these analytical tools the critical investigation of religion has reached another level of sophistication above traditional theories of secularization and religious fundamentalism. Keywords:

- Religion and Popular Culture
- Secularisation
- Post-humanism
- Populist Politics
- Political Religion

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
