

Special Issue

Monitoring and Managing Environmental Sustainability Using Remote Sensing

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to compile a comprehensive collection of innovative research and insights into how remote sensing technology can be leveraged to monitor and manage environmental suitability, thus supporting sustainable development. Manuscripts are encouraged which are related to the following topics:

- Land use and land cover change
- Climate change monitoring
- Biodiversity and habitat mapping
- Agricultural monitoring
- Water resource management
- Urban environment analysis
- Disaster management
- Forest and vegetation monitoring
- Environmental pollution monitoring
- Innovative remote sensing technologies for environmental monitoring

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Remote Sensing is now a prominent international journal of repute in the world of remote sensing and spatial sciences, as a pioneer and pathfinder in open access format. It has highly accomplished global remote sensing scientists on the editorial board and a dedicated team of associate editors. The journal emphasizes quality and novelty and has a rigorous peer-review process. It is now one of the top remote sensing journals with a significant Impact Factor, and a goal to become the best journal in remote sensing in the coming years. I strongly recommend Remote Sensing for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
