

Special Issue

Remote Sensing of Atmospheric Aerosols over Asia: Methods and Applications (Third Edition)

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue welcomes the submission articles that present recent advances in remote sensing techniques, new methodologies, and applications with novel scientific contributions for the estimation of particulate matter, the classification of aerosol types, the retrieval of the aerosol optical depth, aerosol radiative forcing, and related topics. This Special Issue is the third edition of the following Special Issue: 2nd Edition: Remote Sensing of Atmospheric Aerosols over Asia: Methods and Applications II

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Remote Sensing is now a prominent international journal of repute in the world of remote sensing and spatial sciences, as a pioneer and pathfinder in open access format. It has highly accomplished global remote sensing scientists on the editorial board and a dedicated team of associate editors. The journal emphasizes quality and novelty and has a rigorous peer-review process. It is now one of the top remote sensing journals with a significant Impact Factor, and a goal to become the best journal in remote sensing in the coming years. I strongly recommend Remote Sensing for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
