Special Issue

Uncertainty in Remote Sensing Image Analysis

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to showcase methods and solutions that deal with uncertainty in remote sensing images. Typically, image analysis methods, statistical methods and uncertainty modelling and its propagation are of interest. We welcome papers that combine a clear and novel methodological component with a good and interesting application. We encourage papers to also include simulations and toy examples.

- Uncertainty modeling
- Information extraction
- Image processing and uncertainty analysis
- Image analysis
- Spatial statistics
- Uncertainty propagation
- Noise removal
- Fuzziness

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Remote Sensing is now a prominent international journal of repute in the world of remote sensing and spatial sciences, as a pioneer and pathfinder in open access format. It has highly accomplished global remote sensing scientists on the editorial board and a dedicated team of associate editors. The journal emphasizes quality and novelty and has a rigorous peer-review process. It is now one of the top remote sensing journals with a significant Impact Factor, and a goal to become the best journal in remote sensing in the coming years. I strongly recommend Remote Sensing for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
