

Special Issue

Artificial Intelligence and Remote Sensing Datasets

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear colleagues, The purpose of this Special Issue is to provide a platform for training data sharing by making labeled and unlabeled data findable and accessible through domain-specific repositories. All kinds of remote sensing data are welcome, such as images, videos, and sensor data. An article describes data descriptors containing a description of a dataset, including what methods used for collecting or producing the data, where the dataset may be found, and how to use the data with use information or a showcase.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Remote Sensing is now a prominent international journal of repute in the world of remote sensing and spatial sciences, as a pioneer and pathfinder in open access format. It has highly accomplished global remote sensing scientists on the editorial board and a dedicated team of associate editors. The journal emphasizes quality and novelty and has a rigorous peer-review process. It is now one of the top remote sensing journals with a significant Impact Factor, and a goal to become the best journal in remote sensing in the coming years. I strongly recommend Remote Sensing for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
